Customer Reviews

I have read and liked all of the LIN COFFIN mysteries written by J. A. WHITING so decided to give this book a try even though it is the 9th book in this series. I'm glad I bought this because it is well written and the mystery is cleverly developed at a nice pace. The story centers on a Bed & Breakfast with visiting guests in winter time Massachusetts. Four sisters own the B&B and they are helped by their friend Mr. Finch and their two cats. All have psychic abilities so there is a touch of the paranormal. At the request of a distraught wife and the local police chief, they attempt to resolve the mysterious disappearance of her husband. Was he a victim of foul play or did he deliberately desert his family? This was a nicely done cozy paranormal mystery so I'll now go back to read the earlier books in the series as well.

Winter is settling into Victorian home of the Rosemont Sisters. Just returning from a ski vacation with Mr. Finch, Miss Betty and the girls boyfriends, everyone wanted to just settle in with some warm soup and head to bed. Door bell ringing announced three new quests; an older woman, Mrs. O'Brien, a heavy set traveler Mel Abel, and finally petite slender woman in her mid forties, Cora Conners arrived. Angie's getting vibes that something was amiss especially when Jack Ford, their attorney friend showed up. Seems Mrs. Conners had arranged prior to her arrival to meet that evening with Mr. Ford. After the meeting Ms. Conners shares with the girls that her husband Richard disappeared suddenly and wants the girls to help locate him. The story-line continues with gathering information on Richard and a smaller story line of Jenna and Tom's new house and the past owner Katrina Stenmark. Ms. Stenmark was a friend of their Aunt Marion Linden who had left the Victorian to Angie when she passed away. There are a few times when something is written that no mention of previous makes you think did I miss that, but otherwise the continuing story of the Rosemont Sisters, Mr. Finch and who can forget Euclid and Circe (the cats) is a great story. I would suggest to really understand all that has come before you begin with book 1.

As always this book was an absolute pleasure to read. Each book is written with the perfect balance of mystery, a little danger, and family interaction. The cats, can't forget them, they smooth the edges at just the right moment.

I have enjoyed all the books in this series and each one gets better and better. The girls all have their own things going on however it is written with great flow. You will love all the characters and their personalities! I am not even a fan of paranormal however this series has won me over!

The Sweet Cove Mystery series is my favorite of the 3 series written, although I would love to see Angie and Josh do more together with him helping also. I love the way they all work together and try to embrace their powers more

I have been enjoying the sisters and Mr. Finch since book 1. I am easily drawn into each story . This one was exciting and hard to put down, even just to feed my cats LOL Will be watching for more.

I love this series!! Fun and fast paced. Likable characters. Good storyline with twists and turns. I will definitely read more as they come out.

How fun to meet new characters in this suspense filled thriller. Again I RECOMMEND all of the SWEET COVE mysteries. I do hope you read them in order or you may get confused as each one unfolds.
